The Division of Global and Public Health announces an innovative program to meet the evolving educational needs of health practitioners.

Certificate in Clinical Nutrition

Nutrition research has made advances but it has also generated conflicting information making nutrition practice more complex. This course will:

◆ Provide clinical and practical information that will enhance health practitioners’ nutrition skills
◆ Separate facts from fiction
◆ Discuss trendy topics such as antioxidants, herbs, super foods, organic foods, weight loss diets, vegetarianism, food allergies and elimination diets

When

• April 9, 16, 23 & 30, 2016 (Saturdays)
  Time: 9am to 6pm

Where

• Weill Cornell Medical College in Qatar (WCMC-Q)

Who should attend

• Health professionals (doctors, nurses, pharmacists, counselors, educators, researchers, therapists, dietitians and allied health professionals)

Course Structure (50 hours total)

• Lectures, interactive discussions and self study

Cost

• QR 1,500

To express your interest in attending the course or for further information, please contact Ms. Jovita Pereira at: jap2027@qatar-med.cornell.edu or call 4492-8530

WCMC-Q is seeking CME/CPD credits from Qatar Council for Healthcare Practitioners for this activity.