

Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar

Verification of Learning Disability

Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar provides services and accommodations to person with disabilities to ensure equal access to educational programs and activities. To qualify for accommodations, a disability must substantially limit one or more major life activity, such as walking, hearing, speaking, seeing, learning, performing manual tasks, and working. Current and comprehensive disability documentation from an approved evaluator (who is not a relative of the student) is required before WCM-Q can make a determination. Additional documentation may be required. For additional information, see Weill Cornell Medicine in Qatar Disability Accommodation.

WCM-Q does not have a specific form to document a Learning Disability. Rather, the approved evaluator must submit documentation in accordance with the attached "Guidelines for Documenting a Learning Disability."

Reasonable accommodations will be determined by the WCM-Q Student Affairs Division based upon findings reported in the documentation provided by the student.
