Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar | Doctors of the Future Conference

Doctors of the Future Conference

The Doctors of the Future Conference is an initiative organized by the Office of Student Outreach and Educational Development at Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar to bring together key educational players and future medical students in Qatar and beyond. The conference is an annual gathering of highly motivated students aspiring to become the next generation of medical leaders.

The conference will take place at Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar on February 23-24, 2024, and will include:

1. High School Research Competition: The top teams of the High School Research Competition will have the opportunity to present their work during the conference. The winners will be selected for Doctor of the Future awards.

2. Medicine Unlimited Community Outreach Fair: High School students, parents, and school representatives are invited to take part in a variety of interactive activities which provide a glimpse of science, medicine and the possibilities offered by a career in healthcare, as well as the chance to compete for valuable prizes.

3. Medical Careers: The Doctors of the Future Conference presents exciting medical careers panels, and research poster presentations offered by our WCM-Q current medical students, with the aim of enhancing engagement opportunities and peer mentoring encounters for high school students.
