

Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar

Institute for Population Health

Health and YOU Community Wellness Series

Could your abdominal pain be due to Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS)?

This session will provide an overview of Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS), a common cause of chronic abdominal pain presented in primary care. Symptoms and management of IBS, as well as other common causes of chronic pain will be covered in this session.

Live Webinar
April 30, 2025 | Wed
4:00 - 5:00 PM
(Qatar Time)

Speaker

Dr. Mai Mahmoud

*Assistant Dean for Faculty Affairs
Associate Professor of Teaching in Medicine
Director for Student Academic Advising*

Dr. Mahmoud is the Assistant Dean for Faculty Affairs, director of the Medicine clerkship and a director for the Students' Academic Advising. Dr. Mahmoud is American board certified in Internal medicine and Geriatrics and practices as a consultant at Hamad Medical Corporation (HMC), Qatar and actively engaged in residents teaching. Dr Mahmoud completed a Master of Education in the Health Profession (MEHP) from John Hopkins University in Dec, 2017.

Dr. Mahmoud received her medical degree from the Faculty of Medicine University of Khartoum in Khartoum, Sudan and continued her training in Sudan before moving to Canada where she completed the licensing exams for both Canada and the US. Subsequently, she completed an internship and residency at State University of New York in Brooklyn, New York (2004 - 2000). Prior to joining Weill Cornell Medicine in Qatar in 2006, Dr. Mahmoud completed a fellowship in Geriatric Medicine at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center (The University Hospital of Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons). Dr. Mahmoud joined WCM-Q in 2006 teaching first, second, and third-year courses.

Dr. Mahmoud is a fellow at the American College of Physician and served on a number of international and national (Qatar) research and organizational committees. Dr. Mahmoud's research includes medical education, particularly the areas of assessment of clinical competencies and academic integrity and presented her work in medical education conferences internationally. Dr. Mahmoud engaged in other collaborative research in diabetes mellitus, hypertension, shisha smoking, and the health of elderly people in Qatar.