The Medical Career Seminar is a weekly activity for the Foundation class. Each weekly session is facilitated by guest speakers from WCM-Q and community partners to provide students with opportunities to learn more and ask questions about the practice of medicine. The main purpose of the Medical Career Seminar Series is to motivate students through learning about practitioners’ careers and experiences.

The program is designed to connect interested students with alumni physicians practicing in the specialty the student is interested in pursuing after graduation. In this program, students will be connected with alumni physicians and meet with them frequently for mentoring sessions. The mentees will expand their academic and medical knowledge and skills, gain valuable advice from a more experienced person, improve their communication skills, and participate in early career exploration.

This program is designed to connect interested students with alumni physicians practicing in the specialty the student is interested in pursuing after graduation. In this program, students will be connected with alumni physicians and meet with them frequently for mentoring sessions. The mentees will expand their academic and medical knowledge and skills, gain valuable advice from a more experienced person, improve their communication skills, and participate in early career exploration.