

Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar

Institute for Population Health

Health and YOU Community Wellness Series

The benefits and risks of social media on children and teenagers

A conversation about the role of social media on the children and teenagers' health and development.

This session will discuss the benefits and risks of social media, share researched policies and guidelines besides recommendations to parents and health care providers.

Live Webinar
Monday, February 3, 2025
4:00PM
(Qatar Time)

Speaker

Dr. Amal Khidir

*Associate Professor of Pediatrics,
Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar*

Amal Khidir, MBBS, FAAP, Associate Professor of Pediatrics, Assistant Dean for Faculty Development, Vice Chair of IRB and former Pediatric Clerkship Director joined WCMQ in 2006. American Board-certified pediatrician, and fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics. Member: Council of Medical Students Education in Pediatrics (COMSEP), co-led the Research and Scholarship Collaborative and co-chaired the Annual Meeting Committee. Member: Academy for Professionalism in Health Care and co-chair of the Annual Meeting Committee. Fellow: Leadership Excellence in Education for Professionalism (LEEP). Practices pediatrics in Qatar. Graduated from Khartoum University, Sudan. Pediatric residency at Howard University Hospital, Washington, D.C. Joined as faculty and pediatric clerkship director. Completed the Program for Educators in Healthcare Professions at Harvard Macy Institution, LEEP Fellowship and COMSEP COACH Certificate Program (2023).

Co-founder of Professionalism program (HMC), >4000 faculty, trainees, nurses, and pharmacists participated. Led and participated > 50 peer-reviewed regional and international professional workshops. Received several teaching awards and COMSEP 2021 Research and Scholarship Award. Awarded research and CPD grants and supervised learners clinically and in research. Areas of interest: professionalism, remediation, professional development, assessment, and cultural humility.