

Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar

Institute for Population Health

Health and YOU

Community Wellness Series

Safeguarding your kidneys: About chronic kidney disease

This session will discuss early signs of kidney disease, stages of progression, management strategies to slow progress, and its impact on overall health.

Live Webinar

October 7, 2024
4:00 to 5:00 PM
(Qatar Time)

Speaker

Dr. Mahrukh S Rizvi

*Assistant Professor of Medicine,
Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar*

Dr. Mahrukh S. Rizvi is an Assistant Professor of Medicine at Weill Cornell Medicine-Qatar (WCM-Q). She serves as the director of the Emergency Medicine clerkship and the co-director of the Internal Medicine and Anesthesia and Critical Care clerkships. She also co-leads the Point of Care Ultrasound Curriculum at WCM-Q. Dr Rizvi is a Consultant in the Medical Intensive Care Unit at Hamad Medical Corporation. She is American Board Certified in Internal Medicine, Nephrology, and Critical Care Medicine.

An alumna of WCM-Q, Dr. Rizvi completed her residency training in Internal Medicine at Rochester General Hospital in Western New York where she was recognized with the Dr. U.C. Nigwekar Scholarship award for fostering the spirit of scholarship during residency. She then completed fellowships in Nephrology and Critical Care at University of Rochester Medical Center and Mayo Clinic, Rochester, respectively.

Throughout the years, Dr Rizvi has been a passionate and firm advocate for improving medical education to promote an easy, inquisitive environment, with the goal of improving patient outcomes. She has several peer-reviewed publications in areas of medical education as well as critical care medicine. She has presented at various regional, national, and international platforms. Since returning to WCM-Q, she has been the recipient of several teaching awards.